Why Whitehill & Bordon?

HAMPSHIRE'S GREEN TOWN

Whitehill & Bordon is being transformed into a green and healthy town in a £1 billion regeneration which will provide up to 3,350 new homes, 5,500 new jobs, new schools, a new road, new facilities and more green space for residents and visitors to enjoy.

The town originally grew because the Army settled here and set up a training base more than 100 years ago - but this is now being relocated to Wiltshire. The Army's move out of Whitehill & Bordon frees up approximately 300 hectares of land in a prime location in south east England.

The town is one of the largest housing developments in the area, with thousands of new homes to be built over the next 20 years. To support this there will be significant commercial, retail and leisure development. The vision is to create a hub for technology businesses that complement the high environmental values and standards promoted throughout the regeneration.

A dedicated regeneration team is working to regenerate Whitehill & Bordon for a partnership which includes the major landowners and has central government backing.
